

Taipei 101

Taipei 101, the world's tallest building 508 meter high, is also called the Taipei Financial Center (台北金融中心). It has two parts, the Taipei 101 Mall and the Taipei 101 office tower.

The Taipei 101 mall has more than 50 well known international brands, like Louis Vuitton and Prada, and top-line cosmetics(化妝品) stores among the tenants(專櫃). There will be at least nine restaurants to be run by the best international standard hotels (飯店) in Taipei. Page One, the most famous bookstore in Singapore(新加坡), will open its first bookstore in Taiwan in the mall. There will also be a supermarket run by Jason Market, one with the Wellcome chain(聯鎖店). The opening was set for November 14, 2003. Hundred thousands of people have visited the mall since then.

From the ninth to the 100th floor of the Taipei 101 office tower, most of space will be used by the big-name multinational financial institutions(跨國金融機構). All the building is planned to be finished in October 2004. President Chen said the new building will help Taipei become a major international financial center.
